[01:00] Asia Agcaoili Bedtime Stories. ``` A: You can use the sub function on the text/html of R to extract specific parts. You can write this using str_extract_all and paste: library(stringr) sub("(?s).*BEDTIME STORIES ASIA AGCAOILI. ", "", df) # [1] "BEDTIME STORIES ASIA AGCAOILI." I don't think you need to escape the. character because of the greedy.. The regex you had there will only match the first line of the.txt file you posted. You can try other patterns, or find a more suitable one in Regex101. Q: Multiple post request limits in flask I want to make multiple post requests to a page on a website and for some reason flask is not recognizing the code I have to get around the cap of multiple post requests. @app.route('/') @app.route('/callback', methods=['POST']) def callback(): # Process the event if 'name' in request.args: # Render callback.js page render_template('callback.html') else: return redirect('/') Thanks for the help! A: If you want to send multiple requests, use: @app.route('/') @app.route('/callback',

Is there a way to disable the "https" certificate warning shown in visual studio when it detects an invalid certificate? I would like to disable it for all certificates but it seems I can't find a way to do this. I've found a way to turn off the certificate error on the "solution" level but that doesn't seem to apply to the projects in the solution. A: Finally figured it out! In the Options>WebOptions for the page you're editing you'll see the option to disable the Certificate Error page. A: If you want to disable this for only one site, then open that particular site's "Advanced" properties and in the "Web" tab uncheck "Prompt for trusting certificates" (I'm not sure about if it's checked or not at the moment) Missed school buses have become a nationwide epidemic for more than a decade. The situation is particularly acute in the nation's large urban areas, where the number of school buses has significantly decreased over the past decade. These buses may be used for a variety of purposes. For example, when school buses are operating after dark, they may be used to transport children home from the child's school. Such use is more likely to be critical after school hours, when children may be found on the street in unsafe conditions.Q: Exception thrown when trying to get a system registry My goal is to simply get the local system registry by key. I have a C# application, so am using the following, which throws an exception. I did some research, and found this question to be a duplicate, but the answer does not work for me. From some googling, I understand that I am seeing a lot of compatibility issues, but was wondering if anyone can help me 2d92ce491b
