Your class then gets the click action from the button. The code can be improved with some setText() method changes but hopefully this gives you the idea. A man who said he's a diabetic had his day in court this week after an Ohio judge fined him $50 for giving out medical advice to a police officer. Cleveland.com reports a judge found Asst. Municipal Prosecutor Joe Haneke guilty of "unlawful interference" with a police officer's sworn duty to protect the public. The judge fined him $50. The story goes that Haneke was leaving his house Monday when a police officer stopped him and asked if he had diabetes. The judge ruled the interaction improper for medical advice. Sue Rettig, Haneke's lawyer, told the Cleveland.com that her client was just trying to help a friend who seemed confused about his health.
