Download the Trial version Download the full version The OldHoneyFixer is a patented interface that alters the icons on your computer to look like they're from 1994. If you are tired of looking at bright, colorful, modern icons on your computer, this tool makes it easy to revert to the simpler, icon-based Windows 95 interface with one click. This version of the OldHoneyFixer is just a trial, paid versions of the application can be purchased on the OldHoneyFixer website. To get started, simply download this version, run the installer, and then restart your computer. While the tool is installing, it may ask you to reboot so that it can make changes to your computer. After your computer restarts, you should be presented with a confirmation screen. This just means that everything went well and that the process has now begun. There is no need to press any button on the confirmation screen. The first time you run the application, you will be prompted to restart your computer for it to take effect. This restart is necessary to make the icons on your computer look like they're from 1994. After the restart is complete, you can simply close this program. Supported Operating System: Windows 7, Windows Vista, Windows XP, Windows 2000 The pro version of OldHoneyFixer offers more features! It also allows you to make your computer look like it's from 2011! The OldHoneyFixer pro version is sold exclusively from the OldHoneyFixer website and requires a purchase. There are no demo versions available for download or purchase. The OldHoneyFixer pro version is delivered to you using a file 09e8f5149f

What's New In?

- Displays the new "Litho Look" to match the look of Windows 8 - It allows you to change your desktop theme, colors and font size - Easy to use, you will be able to see the preview of your desktop in no time Litho System Requirements: - Windows 7/Vista/8 with Windows 7/8/Vista/8 - Internet connection required - *5 MB minimum of free space in your computer's hard driveFormer Interim GM Kyle Dubas recently sat down with ESPN's Tim Keown for a wide-ranging conversation. During the interview, Dubas was asked a wide range of questions on issues including free agency, a restructured salary cap, and how younger players are supposed to approach being a NHL veteran. As Keown and Dubas talked about the goalie position, Dubas gave his thoughts on which of the goaltending prospects would give his team the most value in the long run. Dubas stated that while Connor Hellebuyck is an experienced netminder who he believes "will give you more than just a sample of what he can do," he also acknowledged that the Flyers system has a higher goal of finding a "solid, well-rounded starter in the near future." After mentioning the possibility of signing a veteran goalie as part of the team's cap crunch, Dubas answered a question about the system's goal of finding players with "the potential to be an everyday starter for you in the not too distant future." Dubas went on to say, "We don't want to sign a goalie that's just a sample of what he can do. We want him to come in and say, 'this is what I can do, but also show us that you can do more.' We want to have the confidence that you can get more than that. It's easier said than done, but that's the direction that we're headed." Dubas closed out his explanation by saying, "I think that's ultimately what our goal is. Whether you reach that goal by signing a veteran or whether you reach that goal by signing a young goaltender who can play well at the level we play at, all that aside, that's ultimately the direction that we're headed and the direction that we're working hard to get
