QF_C_Grant_77.pdf Requirements: Internet Explorer 6.0 or higher Windows 95 or higher Visual studio HTML5, CSS3 JS jQuery Bootstrap GUID A: As others have stated, this is not a version control system. There's also no automated or versioned backup, but this is intentional as the developer does not want this functionality. The client can only log in once, to pick a work area to start working in, and to pick up documents and files from the work areas. The client can also see what all the areas are like the number of computers available in each area. However, the developer is the only one who can log in at any time with a different user name and password to work from any of the areas, and doesn't want a client logging in because they are there too. So what it does allow is the developer to save a.zip of their work area to their desktop so the client can log in in any area and check the work area. But really the intention of the software is to enhance the developer's productivity by allowing them to work anywhere without client interference, and to keep the client happy by never losing anything important to them. A: It seems to me that this is not a version control system. It's a file sharing system. Compare with the MS Sharepoint. This is more flexible in that regards. So it basically allows sharing a folder with several users. Any of them can be allowed to modify the files in that folder. Once modifications are saved it will be possible to compare versions of the files between two specific dates. /* * Copyright (C) 2016 Bilibili * * Licensed under the Apache License, Version 2.0 (the "License"); * you may not use this file except in compliance with the License. * You may obtain a copy of the License at * * * * Unless required by applicable law or agreed to in writing, software * distributed under the License is distributed on an "AS IS" BASIS, * WITHOUT WARRANTIES OR CONDITIONS OF ANY KIND, either express or implied. * See the License for the specific language governing permissions and * limitations under the License. 6a5afdab4c
